

2019 Annual Training Conference

Wednesday, July 31, 2019

2:00pm-3:00pm

On-site registration

3:00pm-5:00pm

NCLETOA Quarterly Business Meeting & Panel Discussion

7:00pm-10:00pm

Hospitality Room

Thursday, August 1, 2019

8:00am-8:30am

Registration

8:30am-12:00pm

Presentation by Derrick Crews

12:00pm-1:30pm

Lunch (on-site, provided by NCLETOA)

1:30pm-5:00pm

Presentation by Eddy Summers

6:00pm-7:30pm

Dinner (on your own)

7:30pm-10:00pm

Hospitality Room

Friday, August 2, 2019

7:30am-8:30am

Breakfast (on-site, provided by NCLETOA)

8:30am-11:30am

Presentation by Karl L. de la Guerra

11:00am-12:00pm

Conference Conclusion & Door Prizes

2019 Speakers & Presentation Topics

Registration Information

LT. DERRICK CREWS is a 24 year veteran police officer. His career assignments have included; bomb technician, SRO, patrol supervisor, CALEA manager, and IA investigator. His current assignment is CID supervisor, and SWAT/Sniper member. Derrick is an active Taser, ASP, SCAT, and PT instructor. Derrick recently completed the Force Science Analysis certification class and the NCJA Tactical Training Certification Program. Over the last four years he has been the lead use of force instructor for his agency. Derrick will be presenting how to use science to prove your training program is properly training officers and how to measure success.

Human Dynamics Under Stress: Using Science to Prove Your UoF Training Program : Science helps to explain how the brain processes information in time compressed events. As trainers, using this information not only helps you build a better training program, but will aid in justifying why your agency trains in the matter that it does. Topics to be covered are; Alpha v. Beta commands, the speed of an assault, decision-making, and selective attention. All such topics play a role in how trainers should develop their training program in regards to use of force.

Creating a Measurable UoF Training Program: Once a program has been developed, trainers should seek ways to measure the success or failure of such program. While written tests may be the most common method, most officers learn best via active scenario training. Trainers should seek methods to measure actual success within this mode of training. Proper documentation will assist the trainer in justifying use of force actions in the courtroom or internal hearings. It can also aid in documenting when an officer is not performing as expected and employment action is needed.

EDDY SUMMERS is a 34-year veteran of law enforcement. Following his retirement from the Greensboro Police Department in 2013, he continues to serve as a reserve officer. While working full-time, Eddy spent nearly 24 years assigned to the Department's Canine Unit as a handler, trainer and corporal and he served 19 years with the Special Response Team. He is certified through the North Carolina Law Enforcement Training and Standards as a General Instructor, HazMat and SC/AT instructor. Eddy continues to serve as an instructor in law enforcement academies and community colleges and is the presenter of "Being Prepared For The Day- Surviving A Deadly Force Encounter."

Being Prepared for the Day : Being in an Officer-involved shooting or critical incident produces uncertainties, stress and fears of what will happen next. Undue anxiety can develop within both personal and professional relationships and effect job performance and home life. Being Prepared For The Day offers an in-depth analysis of what occurs during and after an officer-involved shooting along with information to better prepare you before the incident can happen.

KARL DE LA GUERRA, a thirty nine year veteran of the protective services industry, is Chairman & Chief Executive Officer of Karl de la Guerra, Inc., an international security consulting and protective services training company based in Charlotte, North Carolina. Karl also operates KDI Protective Services of South Carolina, a licensed, state-wide private sector response agency providing specialized support services to security agencies and other organizations in need of high-level protection operations and training. Karl's experience is a combination of military law enforcement, civilian law enforcement and international corporate security management. Throughout his career, Karl has maintained an emphasis on executive protection, anti/counter terrorism and tactical training.

Active Threat Situations: An Individual Perspective on Managing Post-Event Recovery : This 4-hour program, designed for police trainers, is focused on instructing officers how to best manage their personal recovery after surviving an active threat event. Some of the topics discussed in this program include; the moments after a lethal confrontation, assisting the investigative process, recovery from physical injury, managing mental anxiety, family stressors, returning to full duty and engaging in future tactical training. This program will be held in a discussion setting, sharing experiences and knowledge of both the instructor and the student group. As the program concludes, a plan-of-action template, that has been developed during the class, will be outlined for trainers to take back to their agencies.

DATES :

July 31, 2019 - August 2, 2019

LOCATION :

The Inn at Pine Knoll Shores
511 Salter Path Road
Atlantic Beach, NC, 28512
(252) 247-4155 or (800) 338-1533
Discounted nightly room rate is $71.30 (plus applicable taxes) if NCLETOA is referenced.
Deadline to place hotel reservations is June 29, 2019.

REGISTRATION FEE :

$100.00 for current members
$125.00 for non members
Register and pay online at WWW.NCLETOA.ORG or email NCLETOAssociation@gmail.com for additional payment options and details.